No Rabies Cases Reported In Bristol Twp. in Year

Health Officials Attribute Clean Bill to Program Of Dog Inoculation

Dogs may bite in Bristol township, but if they do they don't spread rabies.

According to the township Board of Health which has filed its first annual report with the twp. commissioners there was no recorded case of rabies during the first year of operation of the health board there.

Health officials feel that this record is a result of the rabies inoculation project carried on this summer when dog owners had their pets inoculated at cost by the township in conjunction with the University of Pennsylvania Veterinary School.

372 Dogs Treated. Three hundred and seventy-two dogs were inoculated at a charge to cover cost of $1 per dog.

In all, a total of 86 communications were received by the Board of Health for the year 1951 and 1952, according to the report.

Of the total, 27 communications were complaint letters, all answered. Seventy-three cases were investigated by the health officer, one case is pending. There was one prosecution for a health violation.

Projects listed by the report were: water survey, an investigation of the degree of pollution of swimming waters in the township, including Silver Lake, Neshaunty Creek, and the Delaware River; rabies inoculation of dogs to prevent spread of this "summer" disease; licensing of food handlers and food establishments, a responsibility taken over from the state by the new first class township; and a health survey.

In the category of administration 16 regular and special meetings were held. Expenses of the board of health were listed as $300 for the health officer and $253.53 for secretarial work.

Cooperation Among Groups Needed, Says Pearl Buck. EDGELEY, Nov. 18.—Co-operation among various groups for their mutual benefit rather than competition is the solution to the problems facing America today, said Pearl Buck, of Dublin, Nobel prize winning author, last night.

Speaking at a meeting sponsored by the Human Relations Council of Bucks County at the fire house, here, the author said groups can destroy each other by means of competition just as some species of animals and birds have become extinct.

"In a thousand years, or perhaps less," said the speaker, who was born in China, "there will be no race problems in the United States. It will be as in China, where the people all have the same colored hair, skin and eyes.

But in the meantime, there must be co-operation among various groups of minorities and majorities, she said.

"It is only by co-operation that such peoples as those of China and India have been able to survive through the centuries," said Pearl Buck, who was raised in Asia.

Others speaking last night on the problems of racial discrimination and efforts toward integration were: Miss Frances Levenson, of New York program director for the National Committee Against Discrimination in Housing; Jacques E. Wilmore, of Philadelphia, representative of the American Friends Service Committee; and Charles Boehm, superintendent of Bucks County Schools.

Richard H. McFeely, principal of George School, served as moderator.

Now Is the Time For Overseas Mail, Warns Postmaster

Too early for Christmas shopping? "Don't you believe it!" says Postmaster Lawrence M. Mulligan.

This year there are more friends, relatives, and sweethearts in the armed forces overseas than at any time since World War II. Their precious gifts and cheery Christmas greetings should be mailed immediately.

"Nothing is so disheartening," the Postmaster declared, as forwarding overseas Christmas cards and packages which may not be delivered before December 25."

It's best, of course, to send both parcel post and Christmas cards by air mail. (Overseas air parcels are limited to two pounds.) Be sure the address is easy to read, and includes the recipient's full name, serial number, branch of service, organization and correct A.P.O. or F.P.O.

Include sender's name and address inside all packages. All parcels should be securely wrapped and tied with strong cord. Use heavy corrugated cartons for added protection during their long journey.

Some foods may be sent overseas. But don't mail perishables. Valuable overseas gifts should be registered or insured.

Delivery of the Christmas mails overseas is a complex operation. In some areas, the postal services of our Armed Forces will take up where the U. S. Post Office leaves off. It will help them greatly if everyone follows the suggestions above.

"Your next step," Postmaster Mulligan concluded, "is to get ready for Christmas in the U. S. A. Better start checking your Christmas card list right now, for after December 1, the Post Office will be hard pressed to handle the tremendous volume of Christmas mail!"

Board Willing to Pay Levitt & Sons $2250 per Acre For Sites Selected

FALLS, Nov. 18.—Falls township school board has offered Levitt and Sons, Inc., $2250 per acre for all property in the new community that the school board has previously staked out as school sites, according to James P. Doheny, secretary of the board.

"After the matter of incorporation is cleared up, if it turns out that we won't use the land then we'll dispose of it through proper legal proceedings," continued Doheny.

"We're going to stay on the safe side. We want to be ready with the ground in case we have to build, but of course we won't build any schools in the Levittown area if we're not going to use them."

"We're not going to risk a million dollars down there on schools and then have somebody take them from us," Doheny emphasized.

MORE ORDERLY CHANGEOVER

The courtesy which General Eisenhower has displayed towards President Truman, and his eagerness to cooperate fully in the changeover of administrations, is in striking contrast with the relations between outgoing President Hoover and President-elect Roosevelt, back in 1932-3.

With entire disregard for the confusion it caused, and for the wholly unnecessary inconvenience and loss suffered by millions of Americans as a result, President-elect Roosevelt coldly refused to cooperate with President Hoover at a time when the Republican executive was caught helpless between national and international crises on the one hand and a hostile Democratic Congress on the other.

There is strong reason to conjecture, in fact, that F. D. R. blandly allowed these crises to deepen, and invited the resultant bank holidays, as a means of developing an atmosphere of emergency which would soften up the resistance of Congress to the revolutionary measures he was planning to introduce as soon as he became President.

For many reasons, this is a chapter of American history with which most Americans are unfamiliar. For one, it has never been dealt with objectively by historians. Even today, you will search in vain for any impersonal account of the dramatic events. For another, that was twenty years ago, and a great share of today's citizens were too young to have any personal recollection of the events.

But there are other reasons why the episode has never been properly evaluated. One of these is that the hysteria, the "fear" of which President Roosevelt spoke at his inauguration, was so intense that few persons were able to put their minds to tracing the relationship between the incoming and the outgoing national leaders.

Another is that public attention was diverted by a series of sensational events of far greater emotional appeal than whether Mr. Roosevelt was dealing fairly and courteously with the man he was shortly to replace. President Coolidge died suddenly in this interim; Hitler became Chancellor of Germany; there was a frightfully severe earthquake in California; the

GEORGE SCHOOL, Nov. 18.—John H. Wood of Langhorne, retired trust officer of the Fidelity Philadelphia Trust Company, has been appointed chairman of the Special Gifts Committee in George School's new $530,000 campaign. It was announced today by George A. Walton, principal emeritus and a co-chairman of the campaign.

In other developments at the Friends boarding school, students and teachers boosted the annual community chest returns to nearly $1,800 recently. The 1952 goal was $1,500. Proceeds from the yearly solicitation of the school community are donated to a score of national, international and local causes. Franklin Pennell of Langhorne was student chairman.

Preparatory to winding up the fall sports season, students led by Frank McFaden of Bryn Mawr were busy this week lining up 350 customers for the traditional football clash with Bryn Athyn Academy, customers to ride a special train. Man Takes Out Revenge On Big Glass Show Window

He was "mad"—so he threw an ash tray through Spencer Furniture Co.'s plate glass show window, so said Donald W. VanDine.

Then he went down to the Municipal Building and reported what he'd done.

Because VanDine, 25, of Cassville, N. J., couldn't give any explanation of why he had tried to make like a discus thrower in the dark of night at Mill and Radcliffe sts., police went out to check his tale.

There was truth to Van Dine's story of what had occurred. "Investigation proved same," read the arresting officer's report.

Little pieces of glass lying where once had stood a beautiful show window proved the truth of the story to Edgar Spencer, too. And as if that weren't bad enough, two pieces of furniture in the window were damaged by the flying glass. Spencer estimated damage at about $200.

Police Chief Linford Jones said that Van Dine had no explanation for his actions, except that he was "mad." Justice of the Peace Anthony Nicol last night ordered Van Dine held in $500 bail for action of the county court on a charge of malicious mischief.

Post Office Acquires Additional Quarters For Christmas Rush

Thos. L. Leedom Co. Plant To Be Used As Dispatch Center for Season

Bristol post office officials announced today they have obtained additional space for mail handling activities during the heavy, pre-Christmas season. This space is located in the Thomas L. Leedom Company plant on Beaver st.

However, according to Postmaster Lawrence Mulligan, the general public will continue to use the windows at the post office for general transaction of business and mailing of letters and packages.

Instructions Given. At the Leedom Mill site parcel post packages of business concerns will be received and dispatched.

All first class mail received at the post office will be sent by truck to the Leedom site and dispatched from there.

"We request that all of the large volume mailers, such as business establishments and industries, which have messengers, have their mail taken directly to the Leedom plant site in order to expedite it.

"Large firms which receive quantities of parcel post are also asked to call there to pick up such packages," he adds.

This new site for mail-handling activities opened today.

"The main reason for securing this space is in order to better handle parcel post and other pieces of mail," Mulligan states.

On Thursday evening a meeting in the interest of the Bucks County Chapter, Pennsylvania Association for Retarded Children, will be held in Bristol High School cafeteria at 8 o'clock.

Carl B. Weed, Jr., first vice-president of the state association, will be the principal speaker. The object of the meeting is to organize lower Bucks County in the interest of the work of the association.

Those sponsoring the meeting urge the public to attend and become active in this group.

Mrs. Weed, who is state education chairman, will also attend the meeting, and will enlighten the audience as to the established day care training centers and the various ways in which they can be set up. There will also be a full report on the progress made towards the opening of the special class in Doylestown; and a detailed report as to the equipment fund which has been in process of being raised in the past two months.

Soviet Ban on Political Party Branded as Illegal

VIENNA—A Soviet ban on a right-wing political party in the Russian occupation zone of Austria was denounced today as illegal and beyond the powers of the occupying forces. The Soviet Kommandatura told Austrian police that the League of Independents had been banned, and ordered police to break up all meetings of the league, a right-wing party. The Austrian ministry, however, branded the Russian act as a violation of the control agreement, and said the league is legally recognized.

Million and Half Dollars Worth of Dope Seized

NEW YORK—Eight persons were jailed today in the seizure of $1,525,000 in heroin and the smashing of an east Harlem dope ring whose operations extended to the Midwest. The haul climaxed a three-month investigation.

Taft Available for Floor Leader's Post

WASHINGTON—Sen. Robert A. Taft, Ohio, said today he is available for the post of Senate GOP floor leader, but that he is not "running for the job and hopes there will not be a fight over it." He said no matter who becomes majority leader, he will advise Gen. Eisenhower to confer regularly with all three top Senate Republicans.

Cashier Robbed by "Burglarettes"

PHILADELPHIA—A food market cashier was robbed of $18 and personal effects early today by three girl burglars. The cashier, Miss Rose Massington, 29, told police the three girls grabbed her as she entered her North Philadelphia apartment. They snatched her pocketbook and fled. The "burglarettes," she said, had apparently ransacked the apartment before she entered.

Richard H. McFeely, principal of George School, served as moderator.

Now Is the Time For Overseas Mail, Warns Postmaster

Too early for Christmas shopping? "Don't you believe it!" says Postmaster Lawrence M. Mulligan.

This year there are more friends, relatives, and sweethearts in the armed forces overseas than at any time since World War II. Their precious gifts and cheery Christmas greetings should be mailed immediately.

"Nothing is so disheartening," the Postmaster declared, as forwarding overseas Christmas cards and packages which may not be delivered before December 25."

It's best, of course, to send both parcel post and Christmas cards by air mail. (Overseas air parcels are limited to two pounds.) Be sure the address is easy to read, and includes the recipient's full name, serial number, branch of service, organization and correct A.P.O. or F.P.O.

Include sender's name and address inside all packages. All parcels should be securely wrapped and tied with strong cord. Use heavy corrugated cartons for added protection during their long journey.

Some foods may be sent overseas. But don't mail perishables. Valuable overseas gifts should be registered or insured.

Delivery of the Christmas mails overseas is a complex operation. In some areas, the postal services of our Armed Forces will take up where the U. S. Post Office leaves off. It will help them greatly if everyone follows the suggestions above.

"Your next step," Postmaster Mulligan concluded, "is to get ready for Christmas in the U. S. A. Better start checking your Christmas card list right now, for after December 1, the Post Office will be hard pressed to handle the tremendous volume of Christmas mail."

Falls School Board Makes Offer for School Sites

Board Willing to Pay Levitt & Sons $2250 per Acre For Sites Selected

FALLSINGTON, Nov. 18.—Falls township school board has offered Levitt and Sons, Inc., $2250 per acre for all property in the new community that the school board has previously staked out as school sites, according to James P. Doheny, secretary of the board.

"We would buy the land but we won't consider building a school on it until the present incorporation situation is cleared up," declared Doheny.

"After the matter of incorporation is cleared up, if it turns out that we won't use the land then we'll dispose of it through proper legal proceedings," continued Doheny.

"We're going to stay on the safe side. We want to be ready with the ground in case we have to build, but of course we won't build any schools in the Levittown area if we're not going to use them."

"We're not going to risk a million dollars down there on schools and then have somebody take them from us," Doheny emphasized.

Preparatory to winding up the fall sports season, students led by Frank McFaden of Bryn Mawr were busy this week lining up 250 customers for the traditional football clash with Bryn Athyn Academy, customers to ride a special train. In other years, Principal Richard McFeely has been at the throttle in the Reading Company's steam engine.

Wrapped gifts for servicemen and servicewomen, as well as money to aid in holiday party preparations were included in the plans when members met in Cadet hall. The presiding officer was Mrs. John Montgomery, who requested Mrs. Herbert Kniley to read minutes; and Mrs. Warren Randall to present the treasurer's report.

The sum of $50 was pledged to the Department of Pennsylvania, Legion Auxiliary, toward Yule gifts for veterans and for those in the service. ### MORE ORDERLY CHANGEOVER

The courtesy which General Eisenhower has displayed towards President Truman, and his eagerness to cooperate fully in the changeover of administrations, is in striking contrast with the relations between outgoing President Hoover and President-elect Roosevelt, back in 1932-3.

With entire disregard for the confusion it caused, and for the wholly unnecessary inconvenience and loss suffered by millions of Americans as a result, President-elect Roosevelt coldly refused to cooperate with President Hoover at a time when the Republican executive was caught helpless between national and international crises on the one hand and a hostile Democratic Congress on the other.

There is strong reason to conjecture, in fact, that F. D. R. blandly allowed these crises to deepen, and invited the resultant bank holidays, as a means of developing an atmosphere of emergency which would soften up the resistance of Congress to the revolutionary measures he was planning to introduce as soon as he became President.

For many reasons, this is a chapter of American history with which most Americans are unfamiliar. For one, it has never been dealt with objectively by historians. Even today, you will search in vain for any impersonal account of the dramatic events. For another, that was twenty years ago, and a great share of today's citizens were too young to have any personal recollection of the events.

But there are other reasons why the episode has never been properly evaluated. One of these is that the hysteria, the "fear" of which President Roosevelt spoke at his inauguration, was so intense that few persons were able to put their minds to tracing the relationship between the incoming and the outgoing national leaders.

Another is that public attention was diverted by a series of sensational events of far greater emotional appeal than whether Mr. Roosevelt was dealing fairly and courteously with the man he was shortly to replace. President Coolidge died suddenly in this interim; Hitler became Chancellor of Germany; there was a frightfully severe earthquake in California; the

John H. Wood to Head George School Drive

Retired Banker is Named Chairman of Special Gifts Committee

GEORGE SCHOOL, Nov. 18.—John H. Wood of Langhorne, retired trust officer of the Fidelity Philadelphia Trust Company, has been appointed chairman of the Special Gifts Committee in George School's new $530,000 campaign, it was announced today by George A. Walton, principal emeritus and a co-chairman of the campaign.

"We are delighted to have the services of John Wood, and I am confident that others in the school family share my pleasure," Mr. Walton said. He revealed that membership of the committee is being completed now. A parent of former George School students, Mr. Wood is also treasurer of Philadelphia Yearly Meeting, Society of Friends.

George School is seeking $530,000 to construct a new auditorium, raise faculty salaries and cover certain other operating expenses through its Sixtieth Anniversary Development program. The campaign will end a few months prior to the school's 60th anniversary, in November 1953.

In other developments at the Friends boarding school, students and teachers boosted the annual community chest returns to nearly $1,800 recently. The 1952 goal was $1,500. Proceeds from the yearly solicitation of the school community are donated to a score of national, international and local causes. Franklin Pennell of Langhorne was student chairman.

Preparatory to winding up the fall sports season, students led by Frank McFaden of Bryn Mawr were busy this week lining up 250 customers for the traditional football clash with Bryn Athyn Academy, customers to ride a special train. In other years, Principal Richard McFeely has been at the throttle in the Reading Company's steam engine.

Two Motorists Exonerated In Fatal Road Accidents

Jury Declares No Criminal Negligence Involved On Drivers' Part

Two motorists whose cars fatally injured pedestrians last month were exonerated of gross or criminal negligence last night at an inquest conducted by Bucks County Coroner Russell J. T. Ferris and Deputy Coroner Dr. Wm. L. Goldfarb.

The jury of six ruled that Samuel Siller, 45, of Glenview st., Philadelphia, and Frank H. Moeller, 17, Durham rd., Langhorne, R. D. 3, drivers in two fatal accidents, did not operate their cars in a reckless manner.

Highway Victims

Siller was driver of an auto which fatally injured George B. Cherry, of Bridgewater, on Route 13 near Haunted lane, Oct. 2. Moeller's car hit Mrs. Elsie Smith, 61, of Durham and Rogers rds., Oct. 11, at the Ford and Durham rds. intersection. She died of her injuries a week later in Bristol General Hospital. Paul J. Barrett, Esq., of Barrett & Monroe law firm, Bristol, represented the estates of both victims.

The jury heard conflicting accounts of the accidents.

Man Takes Out Revenge On Big Glass Show Window

He was "mad"—so he threw an ash tray through Spencer Furniture Co.'s plate glass show window, so said Donald W. VanDine.

Then he went down to the Municipal Building and reported what he'd done.

Because VanDine, 25, of Cassville, N. J., couldn't give any explanation of why he had tried to make like a discus thrower in the dark of night at Mill and Radcliffe sts., police went out to check his tale.

There was truth to VanDine's story of what had occurred. "Investigation proved same," read the arresting officer's report.

Little pieces of glass lying where once had stood a beautiful show window proved the truth of the story to Edgar Spencer, too. And as if that weren't bad enough, two pieces of furniture in the window were damaged by the flying glass. Spencer estimated damage at about $200.

Police Chief Linford Jones said that VanDine had no explanation for his actions, except that he was "mad." Justice of the Peace Anthony Niccol last night ordered VanDine held in $500 bail for action of the county court on a charge of malicious mischief.

Post Office Acquires Additional Quarters For Christmas Rush

Thos. L. Leedom Co. Plant To Be Used As Dispatch Center for Season

Bristol post office officials announced today they have obtained additional space for mail handling activities during the heavy, pre-Christmas season. This space is located in the Thomas L. Leedom Company plant on Beaver st.

However, according to Postmaster Lawrence Mulligan, the general public will continue to use the windows at the post office for general transaction of business and mailing of letters and packages.

Instructions Given

At the Leedom Mill site parcel post packages of business concerns will be received and dispatched. All first class mail received at the post office will be sent by truck to the Leedom site and dispatched from there.

"We request that all of the large volume mailers, such as business establishments and industries, which have messengers, have their mail taken directly to the Leedom plant site in order to expedite it."

"Large firms which receive quantities of parcel post are also asked to call there to pick up such packages," he adds.

This new site for mail-handling activities opened today.

"The main reason for securing this space is in order to better handle parcel post and other pieces of mail," Mulligan states.

Election of officers took place with new officers to take office next month. They include: President, Robert Swangler; vice-president, Edith Hess; secretary, Mrs. Peter Mannher; treasurer, Mrs. James Phillips.

A gift of fireplace accessories was presented to the Rev. and Mrs. Robert J. Thomson for their new home. The next meeting will be in the form of a Christmas party, Dec. 13th, in the church social room. Each member is asked to take a toy for the church nursery.

Refreshments were served.

Mail Carrier is Given Suspended Term for Theft

MORRISVILLE, Nov. 18.—A part-time mail carrier, Anthony J. Gavrish, 34, of S. Morris ave., who pleaded guilty to stealing 250 pounds of tin, valued at $287.50, from the Vulcanized Rubber & Plastic Co., has received a suspended sentence from Judge Edwin H. Satterthwaite. Placed on 18 months' probation, Gavrish was ordered to make restitution.

He was arrested Nov. 2 by Morrisville Police Chief John S. Davis and Officer Vincent Arch and confessed to police. He told the officers he stopped stealing junk after getting a job as an extra mail carrier with the post office.

Fire Chiefs Talk Plans At Plumsteadville Parley

PLUMSTEADVILLE, Nov. 18.—Members of the Bucks County Fire Chiefs Association meeting last night at Plumsteadville Fire Co. Bldg. heard the recommendation that they seek closer and more constant contact with the county schools through more frequent inspection and more fire drills, according to C. A. Russell, Treviso Heights, secretary.

A plan was also proposed by the Educational Committee that educational comic books be distributed to the schools.

Chief Fred Hibbs of Edgely spoke of the benefits derived from the fire-radio installation in Bristol township. Yardley borough reported that they were the first in the county to have their fire-radio set up on the wave length allocated by the FCC for fire service only.

Chief Robert O'Neal, Union Fire Co., Cornwells, presided. Walter Rush, Chief of Plumsteadville Fire Co., welcomed the fire chiefs.

The Educational committee reported that it was still working on the plan to place in the schools educational comic books such as are presently being used in Boston

PLAGUE "THREE RS"

In an era when a high school diploma at least is an absolute requisite to employment in many fields, complaint is frequently heard that entrants upon business careers cannot spell, that they are poor at figuring and at great difficulty in expressing themselves in writing.

Blame is put upon failure properly to stress "the Three Rs" in the "good old-fashioned way" that theoretically turned all pupils out proficient in these respects. Of course it did nothing of the sort, for anybody who remembers his or her days in elementary school, at whose door the blame is laid, knows all did not attain the same level of proficiency.

Now comes the Association for Supervisors and Curriculum Development of the National Education Association in a 152-page booklet on "The Three Rs in the Elementary School," in which 100 educators participate. The conclusion reached is that "the children who are taught by the modern methods outstrip their parents and grand-parents in the Three Rs, when achievement at given grade levels then and now is compared."

This is not an "off the cuff" defense, but is based on careful research. Says the foreword:

"The Three Rs, functionally developed, are more important in the living of all people today than they ever were in the past, and these abilities are best developed in a total, meaningful setting, not in isolated periods of the school day."

Teachers, parents and school administrators, it is argued, had best recognize that "no teacher can expect to keep a group of children entirely at the same level," and it is useless and harmful to try to drive a child beyond his capacity. Elementary school work should be made interesting, runs the argument, not a forcing process of learning things by rote, but with the child inspired to learn because he is made to see a reason for it.

Doubtless there will be an angry chorus in rebuttal, but who is to document it, and how?

American people are urged to eat larger breakfasts. And, some employers would add, eat them before coming to work.

Pentagon and Atomic Energy Commission are reported in a Washington dispatch to be "disturbed over the evident inability of the United States to keep its military secrets."

It is reassuring to read that "extensive security precautions" are being set up to guard President-elect Eisenhower during his projected trip to Korea.

An oracle says 1953 will be a year of decision, which is always considered a safe prediction because what year isn't?

"WASHINGTON REPORT"

By FULTON LEWIS, JR.

(Copyright, 1952, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18. A determined effort to repeal the McCarran-Walter Immigration Act will be undertaken as soon as the new Congress is organized. The Administration has used what minority group resentment does exist over the law as a political football. So have the Communists and their sympathizers.

Although the Immigration Law, which goes into effect in late December, has been endorsed by a majority of the nation's patriotic and racial groups, the propaganda pressures for its repeal are great. Most of the critics have been highly vocal even before the law is operative. And the new Congress will be asked to take action without having a chance to see if the new regulations are good or bad.

When the propaganda drive gets under way, keep these facts in mind. A national committee to repeal the McCarran Act was set up in 1951. It will spearhead the new repeal drive. I have examined the ten most prominent critics of the bill, and offer for your edification some details of their past and present activities.

Keep in mind, too, that it is the security provisions of the bill which are most objectionable to the group. The theory of the critics seems to me to be that it is better to rush an alien into the country without delay than to subject him to an anti-subversive scrutiny that does delay the entry for as long as two months in some cases.

Here are four of the ten men: Bishop James C. Baker, who according to the Daily Worker of February 7, 1938, signed a letter to President Roosevelt urging the Catholic Church to act against Franco. It was sponsored by the American Friends of Spanish Democracy.

The American Friends of Spanish Democracy, according to the House Committee on Un-American Activities, "in 1937 and 1938 was approved by the Communist party as a device to support the Spanish Loyalist cause in recruiting men for the Communists."

The Bishop is listed as a sponsor of the American Committee to Save Refugees. In 1944 the House spy hunters labeled this a red front.

The Bishop was a sponsor of the Congress on Civil Rights in Detroit, Michigan in 1946. This was cited as "an organization dedicated not to the defense of civil liberties but specifically to the defense of individual Communists and the Communist party."

Bishop W. J. Walls, secretary of the Board of Bishops of the A. M. E. Zion Church, is another member of the committee to repeal the McCarran-Walter Immigration Bill. He is cited as a member of four of the worst red fronts, and according to the Daily Worker of October 28, 1949, he endorsed Benjamin J. Davis, Jr., a Communist, for reelection of the New York City Council.

The Rt. Rev. Benjamin D. Dagwell, Episcopal Bishop of Oregon, is another. He is cited for membership or activity in three fronts. The Communist Daily Worker, August 14, 1950, lists Rev. Dagwell as an endorser of the World Peace Appeal, which was unmasked as a Communist apparatus.

Another is Bishop Francis J. McConnell of New York. Bishop

McConnell is a consistent defender of Communist and Communist causes, according to the House Committee on Un-American Activities and the Communist Daily Worker. He also, in 1940, was a sponsor of the Fourth Annual Conference of the American Committee for Protection of Foreign-Born. This is a subversive organization, according to the Attorney General of the U. S.

In addition, Bishop McConnell is listed as taking part or having membership in 10 additional well-known Communist-sponsored organizations. He sent greetings to the International Labor Defense, the organization's own records reveal. The ILD was cited as the "legal arm of the Communist party"

In 1943, and later in 1945, in the Attorney General's list of subversive organizations furnished to the Government's Loyalty Boards.

There are other's I'll tick off tomorrow. Paste their names up on a wall somewhere, because you'll be hearing from them again when the fight gets underway in Congress to wreck the new Immigration Law.

Calvin Coolidge, the 30th president, was born July 4, 1872.

Now the car of the year — the deal of the year!

And we're ready to back up that headline with appetizing facts and generous figures. For example, "the car of the year" is more than a glib phrase, it's a title that Mercury has earned by doing—by making news.

Mercury is the one car in its class that came up with something really new for 1952—styling so new it left other cars far behind. And, if that weren't enough, Mercury (with optional overdrive) again proved that pound for pound

it could beat all comers for economy in the Mobilgas Economy Run.

But, we know, you're equally interested in "how much" for your present car. We can give you some idea if you just pick up the phone and call us. But we can do even better if you give us a chance to appraise it firsthand—so we can allow for extras and care you've given it.

So drop around. Our deals are now the best of the year. That means tops in town.

Standard equipment, accessories, and trim illustrated are subject to change without notice. White side-wall tires and full-disc hubcaps at extra cost.

A One-Year-Old Baby At Play

By CARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

FOR a number of summers, I've been taking refresher courses in observing babies, when there have been one or more grandchildren under or around a year of age in our home for a few weeks. Our grandchildren add up to just a dozen at the latest count.

This past summer, the youngest, just 12 months old, was with us for three weeks. He had begun to walk, but spent happy periods of half an hour or more at a stretch in a baby pen we keep on hand for such young visitors.

Value of Baby Pen

Great is the value of a baby pen for an infant from the time he can move himself from where he is put till he readily climbs out of it. It provides him with a safe place and keeps him from getting into everything. He can stand and hold to the sides and have excellent self-training in learning to walk. His mother can go about her work for appreciable periods and he can learn to amuse himself with simple toys provided him. He can be kept in the pen while some person is not right with him.

This particular baby's training in the meaning of NO has wisely been delayed by his parents till his return home, since they will have traveled with him to a number of places in the meanwhile.

While baby-sitting with him and his older brothers and sisters one day, I recorded numerous notes. Here are a few:

Empty Shoe Box

At 3:12 p.m. I gave him in his pen an empty shoe box. He picked it up, explored it with his hands, put it over his head, hammered it with a small block, bit at a corner of it, set it down, put small objects into it, hammered it again. I added some of his familiar small blocks, which he soon put into the box, dumped them from the box, turned it right-side-up, put blocks back into it. Time: 3:20.

He dumped the box, put other small things into it, shook them out, manipulated box, jabbering all the while. Put box on his head, lay down, rolled over holding to the box. Banged box on floor, put it over a foot, set it down, put blocks into it, pushed blocks about in box, emptied box. All this and much more he did in 12 minutes. I made no attempt the while to amuse him.

Complained a Bit

His sister, 10, picked him up at 3:24 and held his hand as he walked about in house and on porch for four minutes, and put him back into pen. He complained a bit, but soon went on with constant activity centered around the box till 3:42, when I took him out and let him freely creep and walk on the lawn.

What impressed me most was the long period of his self-amusement with one central interest—a product of earlier training at home where he gets abundant loving but is allowed to amuse himself.

Although the young mother should not leave the infant for unreasonably long periods to complain and fret, she should leave him for longer periods than she usually does. (My bulletin, "Letting Little Children Learn," may be had in a stamped envelope sent me in care of this paper.)

In an era when a high school diploma at least is an absolute requisite to employment in many fields, complaint is frequently heard that entrants upon business careers cannot spell, that they are poor at figuring and at great difficulty in expressing themselves in writing.

Blame is put upon failure properly to stress "the Three Rs" in the "good old-fashioned way" that theoretically turned all pupils out proficient in these respects. Of course it did nothing of the sort, for anybody who remembers his or her days in elementary school, at whose door the blame is laid, knows all did not attain the same level of proficiency.

Now comes the Association for Supervisors and Curriculum Development of the National Education Association in a 152-page booklet on "The Three Rs in the Elementary School," in which 100 educators participate. The conclusion reached is that "the children who are taught by the modern methods outstrip their parents and grand-parents in the Three Rs, when achievement at given grade levels then and now is compared."

This is not an "off the cuff" defense, but is based on careful research. Says the foreword:

"The Three Rs, functionally developed, are more important in the living of all people today than they ever were in the past, and these abilities are best developed in a total, meaningful setting, not in isolated periods of the school day."

Teachers, parents and school administrators, it is argued, had best recognize that "no teacher can expect to keep a group of children entirely at the same level," and it is useless and harmful to try to drive a child beyond his capacity. Elementary school work should be made interesting, runs the argument, not a forcing process of learning things by rote, but with the child inspired to learn because he is made to see a reason for it.

Doubtless there will be an angry chorus in rebuttal, but who is to document it, and how?

American people are urged to eat larger breakfasts. And, some employers would add, eat them before coming to work.

Pentagon and Atomic Energy Commission are reported in a Washington dispatch to be "disturbed over the evident inability of the United States to keep its military secrets."

It is reassuring to read that "extensive security precautions" are being set up to guard President-elect Eisenhower during his projected trip to Korea.

An oracle says 1953 will be a year of decision, which is always considered a safe prediction because what year isn't?

"WASHINGTON REPORT"

By FULTON LEWIS, JR.
(Copyright, 1952, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18. A determined effort to repeal the McCarran-Walter Immigration Act will be undertaken as soon as the new Congress is organized. The Administration has used what minority group resentment does exist over the law as a political football. So have the Communists and their sympathizers.

Although the Immigration Law, which goes into effect in late December, has been indorsed by a majority of the nation's patriotic and racial groups, the propaganda pressures for its repeal are great. Most of the critics have been highly vocal even before the law is operative. And the new Congress will be asked to take action without having a chance to see if the new regulations are good or bad.

When the propaganda drive gets under way, keep these facts in mind. A national committee to repeal the McCarran Act was set up in 1951. It will spearhead the new repeal drive. I have examined the ten most prominent critics of the bill, and offer for your edification some details of their past and present activities.

Keep in mind, too, that it is the security provisions of the bill which are most objectionable to the group. The theory of the critics seems to me to be that it is better to rush an alien into the country without delay than to subject him to an anti-subversive scrutiny that does delay the entry for as long as two months in some cases.

Here are four of the ten men:

Bishop James C. Baker, who

according to the Daily Worker of February 7, 1938, signed a letter to President Roosevelt urging the Catholic Church to act against Franco. It was sponsored by the American Friends of Spanish Democracy.

The American Friends of Spanish Democracy, according to the House Committee on Un-American Activities, "in 1937 and 1938 was approved by the Communist party as a device to support the Spanish Loyalist cause in recruiting men for the Communists."

The Bishop is listed as a sponsor of the American Committee to Save Refugees. In 1944 the House spy hunters labeled this a red front.

The Bishop was a sponsor of the Congress on Civil Rights in Detroit, Michigan in 1946. This was cited as "an organization dedicated not to the defense of civil liberties but specifically to the defense of individual Communists and the Communist party."

Bishop W. J. Walls, secretary of the Board of Bishops of the A. M. E. Zion Church, is another member of the committee to repeal the McCarran-Walter Immigration Bill. He is cited as a member of four of the worst red fronts, and according to the Daily Worker of October 28, 1949, he indorsed Benjamin J. Davis, Jr., a Communist, for reelection of the New York City Council.

The Rt. Rev. Benjamin D. Dagwell, Episcopal Bishop of Oregon, is another. He is cited for membership or activity in three fronts. The Communist Daily Worker, August 14, 1950, lists Rev. Dagwell as an indorser of the World Peace Appeal, which was unmasked as a Communist apparatus.

Another is Bishop Francis J. McConnell of New York. Bishop

A One-Year-Old Baby At Play

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

FOR a number of summers, I've been taking refresher courses in observing babies, when there have been one or more grandchildren under or around a year of age in our home for a few weeks. Our grandchildren add up to just a dozen at the latest count.

This past summer, the youngest, just 12 months old, was with us for three weeks. He had begun to walk, but spent happy periods of half an hour or more at a stretch in a baby pen we keep on hand for such young visitors.

Value of Baby Pen

Great is the value of a baby pen for an infant from the time he can move himself from where he is put till he readily climbs out of it. It provides him with a safe place and keeps him from getting into everything. He can stand and hold to the sides and have excellent self-training in learning to walk. His mother can go about her work for appreciable periods and he can learn to amuse himself with simple toys provided him. He can be kept in the pen while some person is not right with him.

This particular baby's training in the meaning of NO has wisely been delayed by his parents till his return home, since they will have traveled with him to a number of places in the meanwhile.

While baby-sitting with him and his older brothers and sisters one day, I recorded numerous notes. Here are a few:

Empty Shoe Box

At 3:12 p.m. I gave him in his pen an empty shoe box. He picked it up, explored it with his hands, put it over his head, hammered it with a small block, bit at a corner of it, set it down, put small objects into it, hammered it again. I added some of his familiar small blocks, which he soon put into the box, dumped them from the box, turned it right-side-up, put blocks back into it. Time: 3:20.

He dumped the box, put other small things into it, shook them out, manipulated box, jabbering all the while. Put box on his head, lay down, rolled over holding to the box. Banged box on floor, put it over a foot, set it down, put blocks into it, pushed blocks about in box, emptied box. All this and much more he did in 12 minutes. I made no attempt the while to amuse him.

Complained a Bit

His sister, 10, picked him up at 3:24 and held his hand as he walked about in house and on porch for four minutes, and put him back into pen. He complained a bit, but soon went on with constant activity centered around the box till 3:42, when I took him out and let him freely creep and walk on the lawn.

What impressed me most was the long period of his self-amusement with one central interest — a product of earlier training at home where he gets abundant loving but is allowed to amuse himself.

Although the young mother should not leave the infant for unreasonably long periods to complain and fret, she should leave him for longer periods than she usually does. (My bulletin, "Letting Little Children Learn," may be had in a stamped envelope sent me in care of this paper.)

McConnell is a consistent defender of Communist and Communist causes, according to the House Committee on Un-American Activities and the Communist Daily Worker. He also, in 1940, was a sponsor of the Fourth Annual Conference of the American Committee for Protection of Foreign-Born. This is a subversive organization, according to the Attorney General of the U. S.

In addition, Bishop McConnell is listed as taking part or having membership in 10 additional well-known Communist-sponsored organizations. He sent greetings to the International Labor Defense, the organization's own records reveal. The ILD was cited as the "legal arm of the Communist party" in 1943, and later in 1945, in the Attorney General's list of subversive organizations furnished to the Government's Loyalty Boards.

There are other's I'll tick off tomorrow. Paste their names up on a wall somewhere, because you'll be hearing from them again when the fight gets underway in Congress to wreck the new Immigration Law.

Now the car of the year — the deal of the year!

And we're ready to back up that headline with appetizing facts and generous figures. For example, "the car of the year" is more than a glib phrase, it's a title that Mercury has earned by doing — by making news.

Mercury is the one car in its class that came up with something really new for 1952 — styling so new it left other cars far behind. And, if that weren't enough, Mercury (with optional overdrive) again proved that pound for pound

it could beat all comers for economy in the Mobilgas Economy Run.

But, we know, you're equally interested in "how much" for your present car. We can give you some idea if you just pick up the phone and call us. But we can do even better if you give us a chance to appraise it firsthand — so we can allow for extras and care you've given it.

So drop around. Our deals are now the best of the year. That means tops in town.

Standard equipment, accessories, and trim illustrated are subject to change without notice. White side-wall tires and full-disc hubcaps at extra cost.

attempt was made at Miami to assassinate the newly elected President, resulting in the death of Mayor Cermak of Chicago. Just to set the record straight, let us review briefly the course of events which led President Hoover twice to ask the help of the man who had defeated him at the November election, receiving very little courtesy in return, and even less co-operation.

To begin with, many Americans are prone to forget that in 1930, in the very early stages of the Depression, the Democrats captured control of the House of Representatives, set up Charley Michaelson in business as a master hatchetman, and thereafter consistently refused to pass any measures to relieve the economic crisis, meanwhile abusing the President immoderately for his "failure to act."

This situation continued right down past the election and, in fact, until March 4, the old inauguration date. Those were the "lame duck" days when Congressmen came back to pass legislation after they had been defeated.

The crisis which first arose concerned the European War debts, some $11,000,000,000 due to the American government from foreign countries which could not, or had come to believe they could not, afford to repay their debts. Both Republicans and Democrats in the 1932 campaign promised to try to "do something" about these debts. Broadly speaking, there were three proposals—first, to adjust the loans so they would help foreign economy, which was Mr. Hoover's idea; second, largely to cancel the debts, which was the scheme towards which Mr. Roosevelt's thinking headed; and third, to do nothing, which was a political roadblock worked out by the Democratic bosses of Congress.

Since the next date for paying installments on the debts was barely a month after the election, Mr. Hoover pleaded desperately with Mr. Roosevelt to set forth a program which would be acceptable to the Democratic majority in Congress, promising to do what he could to swing Republican votes back of it.

Mr. Roosevelt coyly replied that "I am going to be Governor of New York right up to January 1 and then I will begin to think about other things."

The foreign governments, quickly sizing up the situation, largely refused to pay their debt installments when they came due, and the moral support given them by associates of President-elect Roosevelt soon made it clear that the American taxpayers, not the borrowers, would have to absorb the greater share of the war debts.

This financial blow, coupled with realization that for the entire period from the beginning of November to the beginning of March there was to be no effective government over this country—the Democrats and their president-elect having embarked on a device not then known by name, the sidown strike—proved to be too much for the nation's banks.

By the middle of February, banks were closing their doors by wholesale—the word for it was "holiday." In several states, such as Michigan, every bank closed for the time being. In others, great numbers closed and only the hardier remained open.

By inaugural day, the situation was chaos, and one of the new president's first acts was to close all banks, giving due notice that the Hoover regime was to blame. For ten days or so "scrip" was the only currency, then the banks reopened. Many a banking expert will tell you there never was any real reason for this frightful experience, and that the whole affair could have been avoided if Mr. Roosevelt had used his influence to break the deadlock created in Congress by his own political adherents.

Now the shoe is on the other foot. Instead of trying to "play politics" with the situation, the incoming President has cooperated to the utmost. Fortunately, the gap between election day and inauguration had been greatly shortened. There no longer is such a thing as a "lame duck" Congressional session. The new Congress will be, from the outset, the one elected to serve with the incoming President.

Nevertheless, the greatest contrast lies, not in the change of the schedule of dates, but in the personality and motivations of two men elected to the presidency and their reactions under almost identical circumstances—Roosevelt and Eisenhower.

Slipcovers You Can Make

INSTRUCTIONS FOR THIS SPREAD and drapery set are given in "How to Make Your Own Slipcovers," by Kay Hardy. The book has helpful diagrams and photographs like those shown here.

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

If you've never made a slipcover, nothing can seem more complicated. "It looks too much like trouble to tackle," you moan. "Maybe I should buy one." Well, go ahead if the budget can afford it. But if you're trying to cut corners, making your own slipcovers will help.

Admittedly it's not an easy job, but if you can follow directions, there's no reason why you can't succeed. And it's exact directions that you'll find in Kay Hardy's newest book, "How to Make Slipcovers." Helpful diagrams and detailed instructions tell you all you need to know. And if you should get discouraged midway through the job, there are some photos of finished articles to boost your morale.

Miss Hardy hasn't missed a trick. She starts off with some instructions for preparing your furniture—cleaning the under upholstery, patching, fixing frames and springs. Then she tells how to measure the required yardage. Cutting is another difficult step. You must, of course, leave fabric for seam allowances and tuck-ins. But, as Miss Hardy outlines these steps, they sound quite simple.

Putting the cover together will take time and patience. The seam trim must be set in place between important seams. Various sewing methods are required. Plackets have to be put in, fasteners chosen—buttons, zippers, snap fasteners, or hooks and eyes.

If you want to go fancy with flounces, there's a chapter on these, too. It suggests all manner of pleats and ruffles and swags that will dress up your homemade job, give it a professional finish. Another chapter on covering cushions offers some good decorator ideas.

The nicest part about the book is that it's not limited to sofa and chair slipcovers. One entire section is devoted to specialties, such as slipcovers for headboards, dressing tables, stools and such.

"How to Make Slipcovers" can probably be ordered through your local bookshop. If not, send me a self-addressed stamped envelope in care of this newspaper for the name of the publisher.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Stevenson for 1956?

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.

There are several things that make it a little difficult to get the boom for Governor Stevenson as the 1956 Democratic presidential candidate off the ground. At this time it is easy to understand the lack of enthusiasm among Democratic politicians.

This is not in the least to disparage Mr. Stevenson. He went into the campaign practically unknown nationally, battled against a great national hero and, despite overwhelming defeat, emerged a bigger figure with a real personal following in the country. No one could have done better—if as well—though it is disillusioning to know that those polished periods in his extremely good speeches were not his own but came from the "brilliant group" of left-wing writers who gathered around him. This, we are told by the veracious Mr. James Reston, of the New York Times, who traveled with him, and who states that the "noblest document of the whole campaign, delivered by Mr. Stevenson in Salt Lake City (and which caused self-styled intellectuals to rave about its rare literary quality), actually was written by Mr. Herbert Agar, formerly editor of the Louisville Courier Journal and now living in England.

Also, Mr. Reston asserts that the "very moving address" of Mr. Stevenson in Richmond was entirely the work of David Cohn, the free-lance writer from Mississippi. Of course, General Eisenhower had his writing group, almost as large though nothing like as brilliant as the Stevenson stable. Nor did the General write his own speeches or contribute much to them even at the beginning. This is not to the discredit of either candidate but was made inevitable by the vast number of speeches that had to be made and the utter physical inability to find time to do the job themselves. Perhaps this is a minor point now, but as much of the Stevenson reputation rests upon the high character of those speeches the fact that they were largely not his own seems timely—if the Stevenson 1956 boom is to be properly evaluated.

Mr. Stevenson is now the titular leader of his party, but that is a long way from making him its choice four years hence. In the first place, his 1956 sponsors are Mr. Wilson Wyatt, of Kentucky, and Mr. Stephen Mitchell, chairman of the National Committee. These are two of Mr. Stevenson's left-wing personal friends. Mr. Wyatt is one of the founders of Americans for Democratic Action. Mr. Stevenson put the Messrs. Wyatt and Mitchell in charge of his campaign but they have no real standing or influence in the Democratic party. In the second place, the crushing nature of the Eisenhower landslide does not make Mr. Stevenson look like a 1956 winner.

He not only lost his own State of Illinois by nearly 500,000 votes, but he only carried 9 out of the 48 states and the popular majority against him was 6,500,000. Under such circumstances the party disposition to renominate so heavy a loser could hardly be pronounced and certainly there will be no "draft" of Mr. Stevenson next time. On the contrary, there is every reason to believe there will be real competition. Certainly Senator Estes Kefauver, who has four more years to serve in the Senate, has by no means, banished his White House dreams. And there are others.

In addition, Mr. Stevenson, no longer in public office, will find it hard to keep in the public eye. Barring some unforeseen misfortune such as a depression, the normal expectation is that the Republicans will renominate General Ike. In that event unless the Democrats should have successfully smeared his Administration in the way the Raskob - Michelson combination smeared Mr. Hoover, probably he will be re-elected. Perhaps it does him an injustice but many think Chairman Mitchell had some such thing as the Raskob - Michelson four-year smear in view when he suggested that what his committee needs is an expanded "research service" and a permanent publicity director.

Concerning this situation Mr. James A. Farley, himself a professional politician, but also a genuinely patriotic citizen, urges both Republicans and Democrats to give President-elect Eisenhower "a chance to make good." "I hope," he said, "our men in the Senate do not start off by needling him—or being mean and petty." This is good advice. It will have no effect, of course, on such senators as the soured and twisted Wayne Morse, of Oregon, or the garrulous Hubert Humphrey, of Minnesota. And it won't appeal to Mr. Wyatt, Chairman Mitchell or the embittered labor bosses, all of whom are anxious to seize on Ike's inevitable mistakes, big and little, to sustain their view of his unfitness. But it will appeal to the many millions who voted for him and to the other millions who didn't but who dislike blows below the belt. Anyhow, Mr. Mitchell need not worry about providing committee smears along the Raskob-Michelson lines. There are plenty of professional "liberal" columnists and commentators eager to do that without recompense or reward.

THANKSGIVING BREAKFAST STARS SAUSAGE

Come Thanksgiving Day, your kitchen will probably be a popular spot. For this reason, it might be well to think about your holiday breakfast now. For this occasion you'll want something on the fancy side, yet something that will require only a limited time to prepare.

To meet this situation, here's a sausage suggestion. Serve twin links of sausage on French toast topped off with hot applesauce. This combines grand eating and serving attractiveness in one dish.

According to Reba Staggs, meat expert, to prepare sausage links that are plump and juicy, place them in a frying pan with 2 or 3 tablespoons of water. Cover the meat closely, and let the sausage links steam for 10 to 15 minutes. Then uncover them and brown on all sides. In the meantime, you can prepare the French toast. Serve with plenty of coffee and milk for a tempting holiday breakfast.

counts of the Bridgewater accident, which occurred shortly after six p. m. during a heavy rainstorm, before clearing Siller of negligence charges.

Skull Fractured
The defendant, who said he was driving on Route 13 toward Bristol at Haunted lane, testified that he saw an approaching Philadelphia-bound car swerve right, and then saw Cherry trotting across the route, from north to south, in the path of his own car, 15 feet ahead. He applied his brakes, Siller said, but struck Cherry, knocking him down. The victim's death was attributed to a fractured skull.

Wm. Attica, 'Almond st., Philadelphia, an eyewitness of the accident, said Cherry was crossing Haunted lane, a short distance from the concrete of Route 13, when struck, and that Siller's car swerved off the south side of the route to the lane. Attica said the impact threw the victim 85 to 100 feet.

Bensalem twp. Police Chief George Rentz said that when he arrived at the scene of the accident Cherry's body had been removed in an ambulance, but he saw blood on Route 13, 100 feet east of Bridgewater rd.

Attica, who said he was standing at the intersection with his wife, awaiting the Philadelphia bus, did not tell the police immediately that he witnessed the accident, he said, but had made his testimony to Chief Rentz later, after visiting

Cherry's late residence. Attica at first said he had described the accident to the police chief the following day. After cross-examination by Arthur Eastburn, Jr., Esq., representing Siller, and further testimony by Rentz it was established that the chief was not informed that Attica was a witness until five days later, and he took the testimony 10 days after the accident.

Bristol twp. Police Officer Charles Haines, first to testify in death of Mrs. Smith, said he and Officer George Neill were called to the Ford-Durham rds. intersection and found the victim lying in the road. Moeller said he approached the intersection on Rogers rd. behind two other cars.

Moeller told the coroner he saw one car swerve left and then saw the woman in his lane. Estimating his speed at the time of the accident at 35 miles an hour, he said he didn't stop, but slowed down. He drove 100 feet before stopping.

ping. Moeller said, and then returned to the scene and mingled in the crowd, not immediately identifying himself to the police. Moeller testified that his car skidded sideways after the accident.

In the previous statement to police he had said he put out his lights and "tried to get away." He said at the inquest that he didn't immediately stop because he was scared, and that the car stalled, and he put out the lights to start it.

Robert English, 16, a passenger with Moeller, corroborated the driver's testimony, except for the driving speed, which he said he did not notice.

Pictures presented by the police showed that the left front of Moeller's car was scratched in the crash.

Members of the jury were Chris Buchler, Alexander Dixon, Raymond Tomlinson, Wm. A. Stetson, Harry Jones and Fred Lockhardt.

A $15,000 fire was reported by members from Quakertown, and Perkasio members reported a barn fire which totally destroyed the structure. Eighteen fires in all were reported by the chiefs.

counts of the Bridgewater accident, which occurred shortly after six p. m. during a heavy rainstorm, before clearing Siller of negligence charges.

Skull Fractured
The defendant, who said he was driving on Route 13 toward Bristol at Haunted lane, testified that he saw an approaching Philadelphia-bound car swerve right, and then saw Cherry trotting across the route, from north to south, in the path of his own car, 15 feet ahead. He applied his brakes, Siller said, but struck Cherry, knocking him down. The victim's death was attributed to a fractured skull.

Wm. Attica, 'Almond st., Philadelphia, an eyewitness of the accident, said Cherry was crossing Haunted lane, a short distance from the concrete of Route 13, when struck, and that Siller's car swerved off the south side of the route to the lane. Attica said the impact threw the victim 85 to 100 feet.

Bensalem twp. Police Chief George Rentz said that when he arrived at the scene of the accident Cherry's body had been removed in an ambulance, but he saw blood on Route 13, 100 feet east of Bridgewater rd.

Attica, who said he was standing at the intersection with his wife, awaiting the Philadelphia bus, did not tell the police immediately that he witnessed the accident, he said, but had made his testimony to Chief Rentz later, after visiting

Cherry's late residence. Attica at first said he had described the accident to the police chief the following day. After cross-examination by Arthur Eastburn, Jr., Esq., representing Siller, and further testimony by Rentz it was established that the chief was not informed that Attica was a witness until five days later, and he took the testimony 10 days after the accident.

Bristol twp. Police Officer Charles Haines, first to testify in death of Mrs. Smith, said he and Officer George Neill were called to the Ford-Durham rds. intersection and found the victim lying in the road. Moeller said he approached the intersection on Rogers rd. behind two other cars.

Moeller told the coroner he saw one car swerve left and then saw the woman in his lane. Estimating his speed at the time of the accident at 35 miles an hour, he said he didn't stop, but slowed down. He drove 100 feet before stop-

New Law to Strengthen Police Authority Passed

FALLSINGTON, Nov. 18 — At a special meeting of the Falls Township Supervisors held last evening at the residence of John Melvin, a new disorderly conduct ordinance was enacted. The law was put on the books as a curb on gamblers, racketeers and other lawless elements. Harrison Carver, president, presided at the meeting.

The board voted the new measure into law on the recommendation of Police Chief Franklin Kirby.

Advocates of the measure pointed out that rapid industrialization of the area, with a substantial increase in population, might attract "unwelcome outsiders" against which existing ordinances were inadequate.

The new law prohibits "breaches of the peace" such as fighting, profanity, indecent language, intoxication, loitering, setting up and maintaining of gambling establishments, carrying of deadly weapons without authority, damaging property and interfering with police.

The penalty for each offense is set at a fine of not more than $100 and costs, or imprisonment for not more than 30 days.

"This should serve as a warning to gamblers and any others who plan to engage in shady enterprises in the township that they will be dealt with severely," Kirby said.

"With the new industries being established here and the heavy payrolls being distributed to residents of the area, township authorities plan to take every precaution to protect the public and to re-double their efforts to maintain a peaceful, respectable community."

A joint district and council party at Valley Forge Hospital on Dec. 21st. The president of the unit, as well as the rehabilitation chairman, have been especially invited to attend this affair. The Langhorne unit also arranged last evening to make 75 sandwiches, and to purchase nuts, candy, etc., for a closed ward party at Valley Forge Hospital on Nov. 26th. Christmas cards, with stamps (unattached) will be provided by individual members for hospitalized men; and at the December meeting individual wrapped gifts are to be donated for hospital distribution.

For the unit's "adopted" girls at Scotland School a holiday present is to be secured. Gifts of money will accompany Christmas greeting cards to those servicemen in the immediate families of members. Shut-ins are also to be remembered with gifts at Christmastide.

Mrs. Gilbert Bonnell, membership chairman, reported 110 affiliates to date, the quota being 141. She also presented a message received from Miss Lois Evans, formerly of this area.

Mrs. Ira Smith informed of the visit made by six members to Valley Forge Hospital recently when gifts were distributed and a pleasant time had conversing with patients.

Under civilian defense heading, Mrs. James Tracy, Hulmeville, gave a brief report of the Nov. 16th dedication of the local sky-watch tower. She also listed tours of duty still open, requesting volunteers for two-hour periods. The civilian defense course taken at Ogonitz

Center recently was reported by Mrs. Tracy and Mrs. Bonnell. Mrs. Kanley, the secretary, presented minutes of the last Montgomery-Bucks Council session held at Morrisville. The November meeting was listed for Doylestown, with six local members planning to attend. Mrs. Frank Sellers gave the coupon collection report; and Mrs. Randall the brief account of the Armistice dinner.

Announcement was made of the appointment of Mrs. Bonnell as stewardess of Cadet hall where the meetings are conducted. Her duties will be to check on equipment, report when equipment is needed; and she is also to be consulted (along with Earl Tomlinson of the post) on dates for use of the building.

A Christmas party will mark the December 15th meeting, with exchange of 50c gifts among members.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Max Ziegler and Mrs. William Flynn.

Garden Club Brightens Places with Arrangements

NEWTOWN, Nov. 18 — Mrs. Ralph Homan was hostess to members of Newtown Garden Club Friday, with 20 present.

Mrs. Russell Janney conducted the meeting, and 112 gifts of flowers and plants and vegetables were reported exchanged during the month.

It was reported flowers were placed in each of the two banks the entire week of Penna. Week. Members will participate in having Christmas or floral arrangements placed in the Methodist Church at Washington Crossing for one week.

Mrs. Janney spoke of the trip she took last summer to the Rocky Mountains. She showed many pictures of the trip, and had two bracelets made of agate and turquoise stones she had collected.

The club will present the next program at the Newtown New Century Club.

New Law to Strengthen Police Authority Passed

FALLS TOWNSHIP, Nov. 18.—At a special meeting of the Falls Township Supervisors held last evening at the residence of John Melvin, a new disorderly conduct ordinance was enacted. The law was put on the books as a curb on gamblers, racketeers and other lawless elements. Harrison Carver, president, presided at the meeting.

The board voted the new measure into law on the recommendation of Police Chief Franklin Kirby.

Advocates of the measure pointed out that rapid industrialization of the area, with a substantial increase in population, might attract "unwelcome outsiders" against which existing ordinances were inadequate.

The new law prohibits "breaches of the peace" such as fighting, profanity, indecent language, intoxication, loitering, setting up and maintaining of gambling establishments, carrying of deadly weapons without authority, damaging property and interfering with police.

The penalty for each offense is set at a fine of not more than $100 and costs, or imprisonment for not more than 30 days.

"This should serve as a warning to gamblers and any others who plan to engage in shady enterprises in the township that they will be dealt with severely," Kirby said.

"With the new industries being established here and the heavy payrolls being distributed to residents of the area, township authorities plan to take every precaution to protect the public and to re-double their efforts to maintain a peaceful, respectable community."

a joint district and council party at Valley Forge Hospital on Dec. 21st.

The president of the unit, as well as the rehabilitation chairman, have been especially invited to attend this affair. The Langhorne unit also arranged last evening to make 75 sandwiches, and to purchase nuts, candy, etc., for a closed ward party at Valley Forge Hospital on Nov. 26th. Christmas cards, with stamps (unattached) will be provided by individual members for hospitalized men; and at the December meeting individual wrapped gifts are to be donated for hospital distribution.

For the unit's "adopted" girls at Scotland School a holiday present is to be secured. Gifts of money will accompany Christmas greeting cards to those servicemen in the immediate families of members. Shut-ins are also to be remembered with gifts at Christmastide.

Mrs. Gilbert Bonnell, membership chairman, reported 110 affiliates to date, the quota being 141. She also presented a message received from Miss Lois Evans, formerly of this area.

Mrs. Ira Smith informed of the visit made by six members to Valley Forge Hospital recently when gifts were distributed and a pleasant time had conversing with patients.

Under civilian defense heading, Mrs. James Tracy, Hulmeville, gave a brief report of the Nov. 16th dedication of the local sky-watch tower. She also listed tours of duty still open, requesting volunteers for two-hour periods. The civilian defense course taken at Ogontz

Center recently was reported by Mrs. Tracy and Mrs. Bonnell.

Mrs. Kiley, the secretary, presented minutes of the last Montgomery-Bucks Council session held at Morrisville. The November meeting was listed for Doylestown, with six local members planning to attend. Mrs. Frank Sellers gave the coupon collection report; and Mrs. Randall the brief account of the Armistice dinner.

Announcement was made of the appointment of Mrs. Bonnell as stewardess of Cadet hall where the meetings are conducted. Her duties will be to check on equipment, report when equipment is needed; and she is also to be consulted (along with Earl Tomlinson of the post) on dates for use of the building.

A Christmas party will mark the December 15th meeting, with exchange of 50c gifts among members.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Max Ziegler and Mrs. William Flynn.

"If we say we have no sin, we deceive ourselves and the truth is not in us; but if we confess our sins, God is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness." 1 St. John 1:8-9.

Johnny has been playing in the mud. His hands are brown, moist and appalling. His face is streaked with dirt. Mother calls him for supper. Johnny appears and as he sits down at his place at the table, the contrast between the immaculate white table cloth and the mud streaked boy is too striking. Father orders the boy to leave the table and wash immediately. Johnny? "But daddy, I'm not dirty."

Johnny was only five. But how often we adults behave in exactly the same way. "I guess I lead a pretty good life." "I may not go to church but I am better than some people." "I keep the commandments." Like little mud-stained Johnnies protesting their cleanliness, these statements are frantic protests made by people between sins. Indeed the very uttering of such a statement is a violation of the Holy Will of God known as self-righteousness.

Make no mistake about it! Every true tradition of Christianity requires confession on the part of Christians! Different Christian traditions handle it in different ways but every Christian is required to confess his sins to Almighty God.

Unwashed sin-stained Johnnies have no more place in the presence of God than the little unwashed mud-stained Johnnie had at his family dinner table. But when the sin-stained Johnnie has washed himself in God's Holy Forgiveness He is welcomed into the Presence of the Most Holy.

"O my God, I desire to hate and forsake, out of love for thee, all sins by which I have ever displeased thee; and I resolve by thy grace, to do the same no more; and to avoid all occasions of sin. Help me to do this, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen."

Bavaria Is Also Site Of Home Building Boom

New Houses in German Alps Described by War Bride, Mrs. G. Wunder

By Staff Reporter
LEVITTOWN, Nov. 18 — This is not the world's only mass housing development. Several new home-building projects are under construction in the Bavarian Alps, according to Mrs. Wm. R. (Gertrude) Wunder, who lived in Augsburg, Germany, until she married an American soldier in 1948.

Mr. and Mrs. Wunder, and their three-year-old son, Billy, moved to 25 Primrose lane from Lawndale, Phila., Oct. 10.

The new Alpine houses are twin and single units, Mrs. Wunder says, not as modern as Levittowners, but enclosed by fences with spacious gardens. The German developments, like Levittown, house young, new families.

Unlike houses here, they have no central heating, but are warmed only by the kitchen range, usually a combination wood and electric stove. Comparing the two home developments, Mrs. Wunder prefers Levittown.

The beauty of her Alpine homeland, however, can be enjoyed in a painting of that region that hangs in the Wunder's living room. The snow-covered mountains and old wood and stone farm buildings are shown in the picture.

Mr. Wunder, an Army veteran, met his wife on his second tour of duty in Europe, when he was assigned to operate the Drei Kronen (Three Crowns) Hotel in Augsburg as a resort for Army personnel on leave. Gertrude worked for him as a waitress. Her parents, Max and Theresa Schwenk, still live in Augsburg. Herr Schwenk is in charge of a railroad freight yard there.

Mr. Wunder, a native of Phila., attended Frankford High School. He joined the Army during World War II, and took part in the events of the European campaign, including the Battle of the Bulge. After coming home at the end of the war he re-enlisted, and was sent to Germany.

He was married in Augsburg and brought his wife to Phila. in 1948.

She recently obtained American citizenship papers. Mr. Wunder works for the General Baking Co., Phila., as supervisor of the ovens. The young family enjoy their summers at Beach Haven, N. J., where Mr. Wunder's mother, Mrs. Catherine Wunder, makes her home. She is spending the winter here with her son and daughter-in-law.

categories of construction not yet past the finishing stage.

The bridge when open will be the central link in the thruway connecting route 1 (Lincoln Highway) west of Morrisville with the intersection of Route 1 and Route 27, east of Trenton. Purpose of the roadway is to carry through traffic between points east of Trenton and west of Morrisville without the necessity of that traffic passing through the centers of Trenton and Morrisville.

The route is also hoped to be used by those who live in New Jersey and work at the U. S. Steel plant near Morrisville.

These workers are expected to use the bridge when it is opened between Pennsylvania Ave. and Perry st.

Opening of the link west of Pennsylvania Ave. is not expected until some time in the spring the bridge spokesmen stated.

Pennsbury District

YARDLEY, Nov. 18—Yardley elementary building has organized a student council composed of one representative from each of the nine home rooms in the building. Members of the council from 1st to 6th grade are: David Risch, Barbara Scott, "Penny" Henan, Ronald Eleuter, Katherine O'Brien, John Allen, "Kathy" Neeld, Sandra Satterthwaite, and David Goodwin. The advisor to the council is Mrs. Grace McGrath.

The theme for the council's work this year is "Our Responsibilities to Our School." Many projects have been developed to carry out this program.

A single contest is the most recent project. Jingles, accompanied by illustrations, were entered from each of the homerooms. The jingles are now on display in the hallways and will be judged by the art instructor, Miss Reinhard.

Mrs. Robert Walker, Phila., recently visited Mrs. Utz's sixth grade in Edgewood building. Mrs. Walker has spent a part of the past three or four summers in Mexico. She gave an interesting talk, illustrated with pottery, blankets, jewelry, baskets, and rugs which she brought from Mexico. She wore a hand-made dress which took a Mexican woman about three weeks to complete. The dress cost about $3.50 in U. S. money. Her stories of bullfights, fiestas, and the market place were fascinating to the pupils.

Probably one of the most interesting of Mrs. Walker's experiences during a recent trip to Mexico was a visit to the recently-discovered Aztec tombs which are the second largest in the world. These tombs were accidentally discovered while workmen were digging a road-bed. The talk was particularly interesting to the sixth graders as they are studying Latin-American countries.

FALLSINGTON, Nov. 18 — Peter Gladding, son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Leon Gladding, is an alert, dark-haired boy attending Mrs. Ruth McCutcheon's 4th grade in Fallsington school building. When the globe, maps, and eastern trade routes are discussed in the social studies activities, Peter tells his classmates about ocean travel by ship and 'plane and life along the Bosphorus in far-off Turkey.

In 1951 Peter was a 3rd grade pupil at Robert College Community School, an American educational outpost in Rumeli Hissar, Turkey. His teacher was Nancy Beecher, a Wellesley graduate. Mrs. Beecher instructed an elementary class of 30 youngsters, most of them from Istanbul's diplomatic and army colony.

As Bucks county pupils describe their visits to Penns Manor, Bowman's Hill, the George Washington Monument, or the Old Barracks in Trenton, Peter speaks just as knowingly of castles built by Mohammed II. to aid his siege of Constantinople in the 15th century. He has climbed their turrets and seen the ottoman guns that commanded the straits between the Black Sea and the blue Bosphorus. As Pennsbury children look across the Delaware river and see Trenton, N. J., so Peter could stand on the castled slopes of Europe and gaze at the sloping foothills of Asia across the Bosphorus river.

Peter's experiences also include homes in Austria and Germany. He returned to this country in February, 1952, and last September he and his family moved to Morrisville.
